Thank you for your interest in becoming the Treasurer of the Board of Trustees at Unlimit Health

Unlimit Health is an international organisation working to end parasitic disease. We work closely with affected countries, sharing evidence and expertise to eliminate preventable infections. Our purpose is to support people to live healthy lives, free from limiting disease. Our vision is for resilient systems that sustain good health, so everyone everywhere can reach their full potential.

This is a particularly exciting time for us, as we embark on our new operational strategy to deliver our work in support of disease elimination, strengthening of health systems and helping to improve health equity.

We are seeking an experienced and passionate individual or individuals with global health experience to join our Board of Trustees as Treasurer.

The Treasurer will play a pivotal leadership role in guiding the organisation's efforts towards sustainably tackling neglected tropical diseases to achieve health equity. This role is crucial in shaping our strategic direction, ensuring effective governance, compliance and financial management, and fostering collaboration among trustees and high level stakeholders. We encourage applications from individuals from countries endemic for NTDs.

Day-to-day life at Unlimit Health is fast-paced but fun. We place great importance and value on working respectfully within the team and in partnership with our partners globally. If you have the skills and experience we are looking for and share our vision and values, then we would love to hear from you.

With best wishes,
Dr. Wendy Harrison, CEO

About Unlimit Health: Our values

Equitable

We challenge inequity and strive toward a fair distribution of power and resources globally. We understand that ill health is rooted in social and economic inequity and injustice.

Inclusive

We respect people's differences, recognising the importance of different perspectives and experiences, applying the principles of compassion and dignity. We understand that having varied perspectives and experiences is essential to achieving our mission.

Transparent

We are transparent in our decision making and our actions and ensure that decisions are informed by credible evidence. We acknowledge the fundamental role of transparency in engendering trust, collaboration, and accountability.

What we do

Our main area of focus is the elimination of schistosomiasis and soil-transmitted helminthiases (intestinal worms). Endemic infections of these parasitic worms are found in some of the world's most marginalised communities, and they can have a hugely detrimental effect on individuals, including:

- Reduced productivity
- Internal organ damage
- Impaired child development
- Reduced school attendance
- Increased risk of HIV in women
- Infertility

Our work includes:

- Evidence-based disease elimination support
- Cross-sectoral health systems strengthening
- Building collaborative partnerships

Eliminating Neglected Tropical Diseases (NTDs)

Approaches to tackling NTDs have focused on disease control in order to reduce prevalence and severity of infections. More recently, there has been a significant shift in global targets and consequently in NTD programmes, including for schistosomiasis, towards sustaining the impact of control programmes and achieving elimination. But this means placing cross-cutting approaches and country ownership at the heart of everything we do.

Cross cutting approaches: NTDs are caused by, and can be best tackled through, multiple pathways, interventions and sectors, including water, sanitation, environment, behaviour, vector control and veterinary public health.

Championing country ownership

To achieve long term elimination it is evident that health programmes must shift away from vertical funding and planning, and towards country ownership. Championing country ownership must therefore focus on:

- Partnership: building trust, valuing diverse perspectives, and investing in local health systems
- Alignment: being agile and avoiding setting up parallel structures in-country that may undermine country ownership, infrastructure, and decision making
- Building expertise: lending technical expertise to enable rapid progress in-country.

Our programmes

ADOPT

Praziquantel is the drug of choice to treat schistosomiasis, but it is unsuitable for the treatment of pre-school aged children (under 6 years of age) due to its size and bitter taste. This leads to an estimated 50 million children currently going untreated. Unlimit Health leads the Access Team within the Pediatric Praziquantel Consortium (PPC), focusing on ensuring access to and delivery of a new pediatric treatment in endemic countries. FGS prevention in Côte d'Ivoire

Female genital schistosomiasis (FGS) is a neglected gynaecological condition affecting 56 million women and girls across Africa. Without treatment, FGS can lead to complications including reproductive organ damage and infertility. It's also now associated with an increased susceptibility to HIV. FGS poses a risk to women in Côte d'Ivoire as Schistosoma haematobium, the parasite responsible for this infection, remains high in some locations. Following a successful pilot programme, we are working with the Ministry of Health (MoH) to scale up FGS prevention services across two districts using a combined health centre and community outreach approach. WASH in Uganda

Since July 2020 we've been working on a community-led project to reduce schistosomiasis (SCH) risk and improve water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH) services in Kamuli district, Eastern Uganda. Our project partners are currently working to deliver key water supply, sanitation, and health promotion interventions identified in the community action plans of the three communities that participated in the pilot. Our impact

“

Since 2015, Mauritania's National NTD Programme has received technical and financial support from Unlimit Health in the fight against schistosomiasis. This commendable support has made it possible to significantly reduce the morbidity and complications associated with this parasitic disease among the vulnerable populations of our country living in poverty-stricken areas.

Dr Baro Abbass
Epidemiologist and Head of the NTD Programme,
Ministry of Health, Mauritania

Our 'Worms can run' campaign raised £200,000 to fund Malawi's adoption of geostatistical impact assessments, so that treatment can be targeted to those who need it most.

“

Unlimit Health has opened the scope of support for other parasitic diseases. It is now easier for the programme to work with this kind of support. The country has already taken some ownership of the programme because we are involved in activities from the very beginning, including the development of proposals and planning.

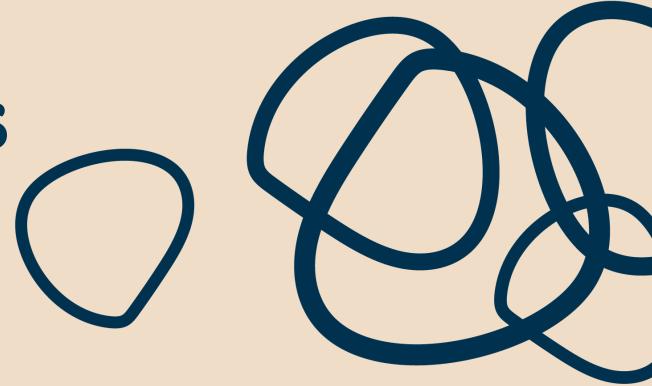

Dr Shaali Makame Ame
NTD Programme Manager
Ministry of Health, Zanzibar

We've received over £1 million in donations from individuals, many through the Effective Altruism movement.
